MARKET TALK: Coordinated actions by Central Banks - Governments likely

MILAN (MF-DJ)--"It is highly likely that in the next few days we will see actions coordinated by the main central banks and that highly expansive fiscal and financial policies will be announced", confirms Luca Riboldi, Investment Manager at Banor SIM. According to the expert, "If there is coordinated action at global level, the stock exchanges will be able to bounce back robustly because, in the meantime, the average global ten-year interest rate is almost zero for nominal rates, and well below zero for actual rates".
